B-278787 DOD FYDP Although made adjustments in the 1999 to decrease the risk that DODs Program funds would migrate from procurement to unplanned operating expenses, Continues to Have we continue to see risks that DODs program may not be executable as planned. These risks involve unrealized savings and other program needs. Substantial Risk We reported in May 1998 that as a result of lower projected inflation rates Projected Savings From by the executive branch, calculated that its goods and services over DOD Favorable Inflation and the 1999-2003 period would cost about 21. 3 billion less than projected Foreign Currency 13 DOD 1 year ago. In addition, projected savings of about 2. 8 billion as a Exchange Rates Used for result of lower projected fuel costs and favorable foreign currency Additional Programs exchange rates. said that with these assumed savings, it can fund DOD additional procurement items and civilian and military pay raises, which account for 15 billion of the 24. 1 billion. DOD The executive branchs projection of s inflation rate for 1999 is 14 1. 5 percent, which is a historically low rate of inflation. If the projected savings from lower inflation, lower fuel costs, and favorable foreign currency exchange rates materialize, can fund the additional DOD DOD programs. However, if those savings do not materialize, will have to adjust its future budgets by cutting programs and or requesting additional budget authority from the President and Congress. s decision to reduce personnel as part of the was driven largely by DOD QDR Some Personnel Cuts...
